Agenda 2 Acknowledging the Board of Directors' report on the past year performance.

The Chairman assigned Mr. Wittawat Nicharoj, Managing Director, to report on the previous year's performance to the Meeting as follows:

In 2024, although the COVID-19 situation has eased and is no longer a major factor, both the Thai and global economies continue to face a slowdown. The pressure stems from high levels of household and corporate debt, particularly among SMEs, which limits access to credit for both consumers and businesses due to financial institutions' tightening measures. In the automotive industry, there has been a clear structural shift in the market. Sales of Japanese-brand vehicles have declined due to intensified competition, especially from the rapidly rising popularity of electric vehicles (EVs). Chinese EV manufacturers, in particular, have gained significant traction by offering affordable EVs equipped with advanced technologies. This trend has slowed the recovery of Japanese car manufacturers in Thailand. As a result, the Company has not yet achieved its targeted sales growth, as its traditional customer base continues to shrink. Nonetheless, in 2024, the Company has managed to improve its performance in all aspects over the past year.

The decline in revenue was primarily due to the overall economic slowdown, which led to reduced purchase orders from certain automotive customers. Summary of the Company's Situation and Strategies for 2025

In 2025, the Company continues to face various economic challenges stemming from multiple factors, including:

- Volatility in global oil prices, which affects overall energy cost structures.
- Rising minimum wages and electricity costs, resulting in increased production costs across various sectors and exerting pressure on the competitiveness of the industrial sector.

1. As of the end of 2024, the Company held Baht 208.88 million in government bonds. What are the maturity and return on these bonds Can a subsidiary invest in the parent company's shares If not restricted by law or good corporate governance principles, he suggested the Company consider reallocating part of the bond investment to purchase shares of its parent company, Saha Union Public Company Limited (SUC), which are currently trading at Baht 28–29 per share significantly below their book value and offer a dividend of Baht 1.60 per share, yielding over 5%.
2. The Company's core operating results (excluding dividend income) have shown continued losses over the past few years, though the loss narrowed in 2024. What are the key factors behind this He encouraged the Company to manage operations towards profitability and requested the Company's outlook on the future of the automotive industry.

Mrs. Chanudda Neiwpipat, a proxy from the Thai Investors Association, asked:

1. Please provide more details regarding cost reduction measures and investments in technology development.

The Chairman assigned Ms. Prayoon Sripraram, Accounting and Finance Manager, to report to the meeting that the government bonds in the amount of THB 208.88 million, with a maturity of six months, yield an average annual return of approximately 2.1%.

The Chairman assigned the Managing Director to provide the meeting with additional information as follows:

1. On cost reduction Operational results have been affected by high costs of raw materials, labor, and energy, which remain above target levels. The Company has consistently implemented strategies to improve production efficiency and cost management. Continuous process improvements have contributed to a recovery in operating performance, and the Company remains committed to further enhancing operations. On technology investment:

(Translation)

In terms of investment in technology development, the Company has enhanced engineering technologies and added new tools and equipment. The Kaizen approach has been adopted, emphasizing the involvement of all personnel in the organization to actively participate in continuous improvement activities aimed at increasing work process efficiency. The benefits include reduced time and fewer process steps.

2. This year, the sales outlook for Japanese automotive manufacturers has declined due to intense market competition and the loss of market share to Chinese electric vehicle (EV) producers. Nevertheless, it is believed that Japanese automakers must intensify their research and development efforts and seek strategic solutions in order to remain competitive and sustain their market presence.

3. With respect to the EV market, the Company has continuously explored opportunities and has had the chance to present proposals to several EV manufacturers. Various approaches have been negotiated; however, the competitive landscape remains extremely challenging. As for products beyond automotive parts, the Company has focused on ongoing market research to identify new customer segments and uncover potential business opportunities such as machinery, tools, and equipment used in the agricultural industry. Additionally, the Company has innovated by repurposing waste materials through a recycling process to produce plastic crates, which are now offered as part of the Company's own product line.
